Napoleon IV.

His Firm Belief in the "Destiny" of the Family—Waiting Patiently for the Fall of the Throne.

[From the St. Louis Globe Democrat.]

Among the dangers to which the French republic is exposed there is one for which no calculation has apparently been made. Young Napoleon, the son of Eugene, is now twenty years of age, and it is said that he intends applying to the Government of France for permission to return to that country and take service in the army. If he does so, there opens before him a long vista of possibilities, each of which, in France may be deemed the natural sequence of events.

When the great Napoleon abdicated the throne of France and quitted the gay capital never to return, the allied Powers unanimously declared that no member of the Bonaparte family should ever again hold the helm of state in France, and any attempt to install another Napoleon should be deemed a sufficient casus belli to call all Europe to arms. Less than fifty years had elapsed before the third Napoleon, in some respects a more talented man than his uncle, calmly stepped forward, sword in hand, and the same Powers which had formerly sworn that he should never occupy the seat of his uncle, hastened to pay their court, to congratulate him on his accession to the imperial power, and to wish him long life and a prosperous reign.

A brief retrospect of the history of Louis Napoleon shakes all faith in the doctrine of appearances. From his cradle to his grave his life was one continual series of surprises. As a youth, his faith was no less strong, though his prospects were darker. As a man, whether living in cheap quarters in London, whether working for his board in New York, whether dodging creditors in Cincinnati, whether a deck-hand on an Ohio flat-boat, whether a prisoner at Ham, whether a Deputy in the Assembly, or a President or an Emperor, or a prisoner of war, or a homeless refugee, he never ceased to trust his destiny.

In this sublime confidence, shown alike by every member of the Bonaparte family, may, perhaps, be found one reason of the strange good fortune that befalls them. The young Napoleon is said to believe in his star quite as firmly as did his father or great uncle. What his star will lead him to is yet to be seen, but no prophecy can be so wild that it may not be realized in the case of a Napoleon. The present Cabinet in France may refuse the youth in England permission to return and serve under the tri-color, but the eyes of France are on him, and whenever the gray Parisian nobles shall fire of the simplicity of a republic and long for the splendor, the parade, the quick advancement and the rapid promotion of an imperial court, a thousand tongues will whisper his name, and he will be brought back and seated on the throne already occupied by two of the greatest figures in history.

A ROUGH PRACTICAL JOKE.—The Albany Journal says: Mr. Harrison and Michael Lattner, brakemen on the Troy and Boston Railroad, entered a saloon in Troy the other day, and after a while Harrison pulled out what appeared to be a tobacco box, and laying it on the floor pretended he was endeavoring to flatten it. Damon Houghtaling, who was working in the saloon, became interested, and was finally induced to endeavor to flatten it with a hammer. Little dreaming of the terrible consequences that were to ensue, Houghtaling laid the box on a stone, and, raising his hammer, struck it a heavy blow. The next moment he was prostrated, covered with blood, suffering from nine ghastly wounds on the face and head. His left eye was blown out, the thumb and index finger were torn off, the palm of his hand was shattered, and his skull and the bones of his face were laid bare. The "trick box" was a torpedo about the size of an old fashioned tobacco box. When Harrison saw the result of his brutal and criminal sport he fled. He was subsequently arrested, being found hidden under a quantity of clothing at the house of Thomas Cornell, on North Third street. Houghtaling was taken to the Third Precinct Station House and Dr. Aiken attended him.

ACTORS AND OLD AGE.—Speaking of age, we see that the great actors lived to more than an average age, one reason being that to be a great actor requires unusual strength and vitality. John Philip Kemble reached sixty-six years, while his brother Charles was seventy-nine years old. Mrs. Siddons died at eighty-six years old. Junius Brutus Booth, notwithstanding his drunkenness, passed his fifty-fifth year. Charles Kean lived ten years longer, and Macready lasted till eighty years old. Charlotte Cushman died at sixty years of age, and Edwin Forrest at sixty five years. Tom Hamlin reached nearly the same age. Going a little further back we find that Garrick lived to sixty-three years, and Betterton to seventy-five years of age. Barton Booth, of Pope's day, was the shortest lived of any actor of note, next to Kean. He was only fifty-two at the time of his death. As a general thing play actors have seldom come under the criminal list, but their social sins are sufficiently flagrant. No actor of note has ever reached the death penalty, except Wilkes Booth, who stands in solitary infamy.—Troy Times.

Hayes' Cabinet.

Secretary of State—William M. Evarts, of New York; Secretary of the Treasury—John Sherman, of Ohio; Secretary of the Interior—Carl Schurz, of Missouri; Secretary of War—Richard W. Thompson, of Indiana; Secretary of the Navy—General Chas. Devens, of Massachusetts; Postmaster General—David M. Key, of Tennessee; Attorney General—George W. McCrary, of Iowa.

Politicians and the press of the country have awaited with impatient interest the cabinet appointments of President Hayes. They well know that much of the success which shall attend the administration of the new President depends upon the Cabinet which he selects. Hayes has been very silent, and hence speculation was but limitedly indulged in. Fears were entertained that he, being a man of only ordinary ability, for the position of President, would choose men for counselors of like ability. Grant, with more firmness than Hayes, selected, with few exceptions, a much inferior Cabinet to that of President Lincoln. Hayes was not wanting, however, in advisors, and taking the counsel of good men, presents to the Senate for confirmation to-day the names of good men for Cabinet officers. Evarts fills the highest office, that of Secretary of State. He is a man well-known in this country and Europe for his legal abilities. Before the Geneva Tribunal he proved more than equal for the great English lawyer, Sir Roundell Palmer. Whether he will prove as able a Secretary as has his predecessor Hamilton Fish, remains to be seen. It will be almost impossible to excel the diplomacy of Grant's great Cabinet officer. In his first appointment Hayes ignores his Civil Service views. Fish is a man tried in the service. He has made a brilliant record, and would do, in all probability, more service to his country than the great New York lawyer.

John Sherman, as Secretary of the Treasury, is just the man for the position. Schurz, the solid German statesman, would be of more service to his country in the U. S. Senate than as a Cabinet officer. He is a good man, however, to head the Interior Department, and will prove an able counselor. Thompson of Indiana, as Secretary of War, is an improvement on Don Cameron, and Devens of Massachusetts will no doubt make a better record as Secretary of the Navy than Robeson of New Jersey. The appointment of David M. Key, ex-Senator from Tennessee, as Postmaster General is a matter of surprise to most Republicans, as Key is a Democrat and did service as Colonel in the Confederate army during the war of the Rebellion. He was appointed to the U. S. Senate in 1875 to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Andrew Johnson. Key is a lawyer by profession, and is spoken of as a man of integrity and ability. He was probably appointed to a Cabinet position in order to please the South. Good Republican material in the Southern States is a rare commodity, and hence a conservative Democrat was chosen. Time alone will tell the wisdom of this choice. George W. McCrary of Iowa is named for Attorney General. McCrary is a good lawyer, but has many superiors in the profession. Evarts of New York, Stanley Mathews of Ohio, Judge Stoughton of Pennsylvania, Bristow of Kentucky, or Hoar of Massachusetts, would make a better Attorney General than McCrary. The latter gentleman has served more than one term in the House of Representatives, is a strong man and will no doubt make a good Cabinet officer.

Upon the whole Hayes has chosen a very competent Cabinet, but he has deprived himself of much of the warm sympathy of many of the leading men in his party. Southern men are pleased, as they have received more than they could ask for, much less expect. He stands out in open field and now must make a strong, vigorous, judicious fight or his administration will be a tame one. The nation is ripe for such action as lies before him already mapped out. Is he the man to stand in the position? God grant that he may prove to be such a man. He has his foot on politicians and on office-seekers and carpet-baggers. May it be big and heavy to keep them in subjection. May he maintain the policy which he has outlined. If he does so his name will go down to posterity, linked with that of Washington, Jackson and Lincoln.

TELEGRAPHIC.

The Waltham building, a large business structure on Bond street, New York, was totally burned Tuesday night, with a loss of over half a million dollars.

Yesterday Lamar of Mississippi was sworn in. Grover and Kellogg have been objected to. The objections will be considered to-day.

Chief Justice Moses, of the South Carolina Supreme Court, died on Tuesday at 1 o'clock.

Joe Coburn, the pugilist, convicted of shooting with attempt to kill a policeman, has been sentenced to ten years in the State Prison.

Weldon, who attempted to assassinate Governor Packard, arrived in Philadelphia Monday. It is thought he will not be prosecuted, owing to the interposition of friends.

Up to 9 o'clock yesterday morning five bodies had been taken from the ruins of the Bateman House at Kern City, Pa. The remains of N. Brown of Philadelphia have been identified. Charley Bateman, who was rescued, died of his injuries Tuesday morning.

A courier who arrived from the front reports that scouts have discovered another Indian village, containing between fifty and sixty lodges, located about sixty miles north of Deadwood, Dakota. Captain Vroom's battalion, consisting of Companies C, B and L, of the Third Cavalry, augmented by civilians, will proceed to attack at once.

Stocks.

Consolidated Virginia passes her dividend again, but California will declare her regular monthly dividend of $2 per share, aggregating $1,080,000 to-morrow, as usual. From one end to the other of the great lode the work of mining development goes courageously forward, notwithstanding the dullness of the times. Justice is showing well at the lower levels and all through the mine; Overman is evidently developing a genuine bonanza; Bullion is giving better promise than ever in the shape of ore prospects at the lower levels. The opening of the 1650-foot level, by the west drift from the C. & C. shaft, is but just commenced, but a large amount of very rich ore has already been developed.—Gold Hill News.

From the above report it will be seen that all the past month's talk of the Virginia papers in reference to the mines shutting down, etc., on account of the Bullion Tax was mere bosh.

AGES OF PROMINENT MEN.—William A. Wheeler is in his 57th year. Samuel J. Tilden is in his 64th year. Thomas A. Hendricks will be 58 September 17, 1877.

Ulysses S. Grant will be 55 April 27, 1877. Thomas W. Ferry, President pro tem. of the Senate, will be 50 June 1, 1877.

Simon Cameron will be 78 March 8, 1877. Hamilton Fish will be 69 August 3, 1877. William M. Evarts was 59 in February last.

Oliver Perry Morton will be 54 August 4, 1877. George F. Edmunds was 49 February 14, 1877. F. T. Frelinghuysen will be 60 August 11, 1877.

Allen G. Thurman will be 64 Nov. 13, 1877. Thomas F. Bayard will be 49 next October.

A young Utica lover, who feared he would be dismissed by his sweetheart's parents because he had lost one eye, has been received with open arms by the whole family since he obtained a blue glass peeper. The father thinks it will improve his daughter's health.

"The sentence of the Court is," said Judge Porter, a popular Irish magistrate, to a notorious drunkard, "that you be confined in jail for the longest period the law will allow, and I hope that you will spend your time in cursing whisky." "Be jabbers I will, and Porter to," was the answer.

Uncle Samuel will manage to be cheerful for many years yet—he has philosophy, a good constitution, and a capital wine cellar, besides taking horseback exercise daily. Such men don't die easy, nor of disappointments in love and politics.

A forty foot whale came into Anaheim creek on the morning of the 2d, and was left there by the tide. The natives could not kill it, and it left at nightfall, carrying away any quantity of lead.

A citizen of Sharon, Conn., has invented, and is about to have patented, a "ballot-box" which registers every ballot cast, so that one can look at any moment of the day and tell how many have been cast.

Virginia City Items.

In Virginia City yesterday a dog-fight drew together a crowd of 300 idle men.

Crowded school-rooms are complained of by some of the Virginia teachers.

Last night bullion valued at $42,203 was sent from the Comstock.

Judge Rising was the first man in town to adopt the blue glass business.

Geo. De Lacy, an Oakland chap of 18 summers, is on a visit to see the Comstock elephant. His first adventure was an attempt to go down in the Ophir mine. A shift boss threw him out on the walk. With $300 he bucked against the tiger next, $200 more followed in the same way, and then he went penniless through the streets, until last evening his mother sent him a ticket to come home on. He has seen a little of life and come to the conclusion that a little experience with common sense is a valuable article on the Comstock.

GOT HIS MAN.—Jim Crawford, the partner of Carlow, who attempted to rob the Eureka and Pioche stage ten days ago, has been captured by Eugene Blair, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger. He was captured in the hills about thirty miles from Pioche. It is very certain that Crawford will stop no more stages and will be exceedingly lucky if he has a chance to go to the State Prison. As soon as Carlow died Eugene Blair, who had remained with him in the hope of securing information leading to the capture of the entire band of robbers, started in pursuit of Crawford. The reward of $550 offered for him will likely find its way into Eugene's pocket, and his efficient services in the interests of the company will doubtless be substantially recognized by it. There was considerable talk in Ward of hanging Crawford in the event of his capture, and he will have to be securely kept to prevent such an occurrence. Blair took Crawford to Pioche with him and left there yesterday morning with his prisoner. Sheriff Ed. Raum, who had been notified of the capture, left Hamilton yesterday morning to meet them. Owing to the intense feeling prevailing at Ward over the matter, Crawford will probably be taken from the stage before it reaches Ward and conveyed to the jail at Hamilton by some other conveyance.—Eureka Sentinel, 7th.

ENGLISH OPINIONS OF HAYES' INAUGURAL.—London, March 6.—President Hayes' inaugural address is published in full, and creates a favorable impression. The Times says the greater part of it is of a character that might have been well received by men of all parties. The News says that the principles Hayes enunciates are excellent. The Telegraph says: We do not imagine that even his candid opponents will complain of the tone and temper of the address, which deals with questions of the highest moment. Mr. Hayes speaks with the dignity and frankness becoming the Chief Magistrate of a great people, and points ways to ends, which, if they can be accomplished, will redound to his honor and that of his country.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

NOVEL EXPERIENCE.—We heard a novel Christian experience a few evenings since. Without company we slipped into one of our churches and took a back seat. Being a little late we got but little benefit of the sermon. The reverend gentleman announced "praise service," and we remained to see who had anything to "praise and thank the Lord for." Some twenty brethren and sisters said they had much to be thankful for; but one of the transcendent brethren was an especial case. He sat close to us, and when he arose we began to think our turn would come next. We listened attentively and looked as religiously as possible; hence we remember some of his Christian experience: "My brethren and sisters, I am a stranger to most of you; but where the Lord's people are, there I am at home—well, I may say that I am at home whenever my hat is off. The preacher said there is a large class called tramps. I expect I am a tramp myself; but a man can't help being poor sometimes. One brother spoke of losing a child and having attractions in Heaven. Well, I have lost four children; they died of diphtheria in California. They were not very attractive here, but I suppose they have changed now. I have a wife and a few children left, and I expect them to be in Heaven, when I hope to settle in Reno and be one of you." The pastor said "thank the Lord, brother," which we took to be an exhortation, and the stranger undoubtedly thought it was intended as a compliment to Reno. He sat down much comforted and we stole out while a revival hymn was sung by the minister and a woman with a sweet voice.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.—Wednesday afternoon, the 7th inst., the many friends of Mrs. Mary R. Fairchild met at her residence, No. 1533 Commercial Row, to greet the good lady on her sixtieth birthday. She is one of the pioneers of California, having reached Sacramento in '52, and resided afterward in Placer county for a long time. But she is also a pioneer of Nevada, for she had a home under the shadows of Mount Davidson in '63, and has stood by the Silver State ever since. Her home has always been a quiet, Christian abode, one of those fountains of rest and purity valuable for any State, but peculiarly precious in a region like our Pacific Coast, where roughness and wrong have had too much power. "Aunt Mary" has many warm friends; and her tables groaned yesterday under "heaps of goodies," and the house was resonant with compliments and good wishes and cherry talk. Many happy returns of the anniversary to the worthy dame, and may such treasures as she multiply and abound in our State.

"TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR-ROOM."—Some of our amateur artists, whose names appear in another column, have been actively engaged for some time past in preparation of the above standard drama. On Thursday night next they propose to present it to the people of Reno, at the Opera House. The price of admission has been fixed at 50 cents, with 25 cents additional for chairs, and in view of this very reasonable fee and the fact that the proceeds are to be donated towards building another hall in Reno, it is fair to presume they will be greeted by a crowded house. From intimations we have received we infer, if their efforts meet with proper encouragement that these ladies and gentlemen will soon turn their attention to the welfare of the Reno Library. This institution needs help, and we can not too heartily commend the evidence of public spirit manifested in the efforts now being made by the Reno amateurs. May they live long, and engage in many such good works. Our citizens will not be laggard in their patronage.

RUNAWAY.—This afternoon a four horse team belonging to Mr. Pollard became frightened near the Reno Lumber Yard and ran some distance up Plaza street. The driver held manfully to the reins, but his high spirited horses were about to prove too much for him when the near wheel horse fell down. This was a miscalculation on the horse's part, and he concluded to stop the rest with the aid of the driver. The near lead horse was badly cut in the pastern joint. The wheel horse was pretty well skinned on one side, and otherwise bruised and cut.

Good cigars, 5 for 25 cents, at Yankee Dodge's. 3-7

A JOKE ON A SMALL FISH.—This morning a man who weighs a little short of 300 pounds went out to fish. After a time he was successful, and caught a trout, in length, about 1 1/4 inches, and two ounce weight. He bore the prize with tears of joy to the Lake House, procured a glass jar, which holds several gallons of water, and filling it, plunged the youthful fish in. Poor little fellow, he swam for several minutes, thinking he had reached Pyramid Lake. His joy knew no bounds, until a placard was placed on the side of the jar, which read: "A bold attempt to start an aquarium," by a Lake House boarder. This quieted the monster, and he playfully accepted the joke, and made himself at home by devouring some bread which had been cast on the waters not many days.

CAUTION.—We presume that the four men who received 601 cards have left town; if not they are keeping very close. We do not approve of a vigilance committee when everything goes as smoothly in a place as here in Reno. True, our citizens do not regard very favorably a number of suspicious characters now infesting our town, but no act of violence should be resorted to unless there are greater reasons than now exist for such a proceeding. Our officers have these suspicious chaps spotted and are closely watching their movements. No flagrant crimes have as yet been committed, hence we should, as citizens, not take the law in our hands until it proves insufficient to the emergency. In the meantime we would suggest that these scoundrels leave town or they may yet get into trouble.

ROLL OF HONOR.—The following named pupils are on the roll of honor in room No. 3, Miss E. M. Emery teacher, for the month ending March 2d: George McFarlin, Fred. White, Eddie Webber, Andrew Taylor, Seymour Upson, Allen Merry, Joseph Fitzgerald, Hattie Vosburg, Josie Fannon, Kitty Grippen, Lillie Stalker, Joanna Jacobs, Cora Manning, Maggie Sullivan.

GONE.—It becomes our painful duty to announce serious defection in our own family. The only brother we had has become entangled in a matrimonial noose, in other words has gone and committed himself. We have, however, one consolation in the worthy character of the young lady. May she live long and happily, and if possible induce somebody to entangle her brother-in-law.

Some gentleman suggested the other day that the C. P. R. R. put up a depot building here because the A. & P. telegraph office was too dirty for ladies to stop at. We deny that the office is untidy in appearance. Phil had the floor scrubbed to-day.

F. & A. M.—A called communication of Reno Lodge No. 13, F. & A. M., will be held on Saturday, March 10th, 1877, for work in the third degree. All members and sojourning brethren in good standing are requested to attend. By order of the W. M.

Eight Italians and one Swiss to-day filed their intention of becoming citizens of the U. S. They will vote of course at the next election. The well qualified citizens required an interpreter to make known to the County Clerk their patriotic intentions.

REPAIRS.—About sixty head of Mongolians are engaged just east of town in repairing the railroad track and hauling gravel for the road bed. The road through the valley is repaired in this manner each year.

A vagrant soliloquized to day after this manner: "Look at me, the wust stiff in Ameriky, and all because I can't do 'manly' labor. Guess I'll dress up as a Chinaman and lobby some of these fellers for a job."

The work of repairing the North Truckee Ditch will soon be commenced. Another year's work will put the company's property in good repair.

A large drove of fine looking sheep were brought in from the mountains to-day.

AT THE OLD STAND.—Pat Koliber has sold the Branch Saddle Rock and returned to the Saddle Rock original, next to the International hotel. This change has been made solely because Pat found himself unable to tend to both places with sufficient care. He prides himself upon his close attention to business and the large number of patrons which he has gained thereby. He now asks a continuance of past favors at the Saddle Rock and promises to deserve them more than ever. Old patrons only need to know the location while new comers are referred to the Saddle Rock for trial. Any man who is not satisfied will go free of charge. Pat points with pride to the number of fat men now roaming our streets, and confesses that his famous Eastern oysters and made dinners have done the work. Call at the Saddle Rock and you may be assured of good treatment and the best which the market affords.

OYSTER SALOON,

The Very Latest.

A man came into a restaurant last night and mounting a high stool leaned over the counter and ordered a porterhouse steak with eggs on the side, and some ale and oysters to begin on. In about half an hour he had finished his repast and was beginning to deliberate what kind of dessert he would wind up on, when a man walked in and tapping him on the shoulder, remarked:

"Is your name Billy Hicks?"

"Yes, that's my name," said the man on the stool, as his hand stole down to his hip-pocket, fumbling for the handle of a barker; "what do you want?"

"We had a little trouble once before in White Pine, and now I guess I've got you dead to rights," continued the newcomer, pulling out a large-sized six-shooter.

"If you'll just step into the street and pace off your distance, I'm your man," said the feeder, who had just finished his pie, and whipping out a revolver he sprang off his perch and rushed after the other into the street.

The frightened restaurant-man got down behind the counter and bent his ear to listen to the shots and the rush of the mob; but he didn't hear anything unusual, and in about five minutes he recollected that there was $3.50 owing on the meal. Then he went out on the sidewalk to investigate.

"Was there a row out here a few minutes ago?" he inquired of a stargazer on the sidewalk.

"Didn't see any. I've been here for the last half hour or so."

"See two fellows with ulsters and revolvers come out?"

"Yes, they was talkin' about swappin' guns, and they're over across the way now, takin' a drink."

The restaurant man went back to clear up the dirty dishes and reflect on his dampfoolishness. — Virginia Chronicle.

WHO IS SHE?—At a charity ball in New York a short time since there was a lady present who had on $200,000 worth of diamonds—yet nobody ran away with her. She lives in San Francisco, but not even jealously ventured the whisper that her diamonds were Californian. She was not beautiful, to say truth, but she was sparkling beyond compare. It was diamonds on diamonds. On her head was a diamond coronet a queen might envy. On her arms were not only heavy diamond bracelets, but above her elbows a diamond band wide as your three fingers. About her waist was a diamond belt, and from this hung a diamond chataleine. There seemed really to be no place for more diamonds, else I believe she would have added them. It would not at all surprise me to learn that her pocket was full of diamonds, so that in case of the usual tear she might be prepared to properly cover the damage. As to the color of her dress or its material, I can not say. To quote Master Brook's eulogy on Mistress Ford, "She was too bright to look against."

ORTHOGRAPHY.—The other day one of the clerks in a Washington street store found the porter crammed among the boxes down cellar, with pen, ink and paper before him. "Writing a letter, eh?" queried the clerk. "Yes, writing to the old man in Buffalo." He handed up the half-written letter for inspection, and presently the clerk remarked: "I see you spell 'g-u-g' that isn't right." "Of course not," said the porter, "but you see the old man always spells it that way, and if I put the other 'g' to it he would think I was putting on style over him and forgetting that I was his son. He is good natured and I don't want to hurt his feelings." The letter went off with only one "g" at the end of "gug"—Saturday Night.

A new dance has been introduced into Paris. It is called "The Boston." Though not described, it is presumable that it is one step forward and hitch eye-glass, two steps back and repeat, nose up, toes in, all hands around and waltz down stairs to a bunch of cold beans.
